SUICIDE IN UNIVERSITY CLUBHOUSE

Dr. John Scott Mason, a wealthy, retired dentist of Salem, Mass., committed suicide early today in the University Club, in the Back Bay, of which he was a member.

Dr. Mason came to Boston two days ago and put up at this club. He was around the club rooms last night, as usual. Today, when employees of the club went to his room, they found the dentist dead. He had taken cyanide of potassium, one of the deadliest and most deadly of poisons.

Dr. Mason was fifty years old and was graduated from Harvard Dental School in 1880. He built up a good practice in Salem and was able to retire a few years ago.

Medical Examiner McGrath was notified. He viewed the body and pronounced the cause of death as suicide. Then he ordered the body removed to North Grove street morgue. Relatives of Dr. Mason in Sacramento were notified.

GOOD TIME TO LOOK FOR COMET

Now is a good time to look at Brooks's Comet. There is no moonlight in the early evening and, if the skies are clear, the comet can be seen, although it is traveling away from the earth. At present it is about 250,000,000 miles distant.

CORNER BOOSTS SUGAR PRICES

That the American Sugar Refining Com-

That the American Sugar Refining Company, the Sugar Trust, has nothing to do with the recent increase in the price of sugar, to its present 8 and 9 cent retail price, but was due to a September "corner" by the producers, was the charge made today by Edwin F. Atkins, of Boston, vice-president and director of the American Sugar Refining Company.

After returning to his Westchester home to investigate the sugar conditions. To the AMERICAN, he said: "The Sugar Company of which I am vice-president has absolutely nothing to do with the recent advances in the price of refined sugar. This increase is due to the increase in cost of raw sugar, and we have nothing to do with it. We purchase the raw product and our price of the refined sugar depends on what we pay for the raw material. The increase in the price of raw sugar is nothing more or less than a September corner and will not last but a few weeks."

"The European sugar crop this year is estimated at 8,000,000 tons, but the drought of June and July so affected the crop that there will be only about 6,000,000 tons available. We therefore cannot purchase the material there.

"Work on refining the United States beet crop and the Louisiana cane will so commence. This will all be refined by January 1, 1912. You see we will beg to derive the benefit of this refining about two weeks. Then come the Cuba arrivals which will begin by January

"When these shipments begin to arrive there will be a decline in the price of sugar. The talk that the candy manufacturers will charge more for the Christmas goods because of the high cost of sugar is not true.

"With these high prices, the American Sugar Company is charging less than most of the other companies.

THE REASON. These were designed for our Spring trade. We were handicapped in getting them out in good season through an unavoidable delay of the delivery of the piece goods from the mill to our factory, and between this and an unusually early period of warm weather which set in when we finished these Overcoats the demand for them was about done.

These are the $28, $25, $22.50, $20 and $18 Overcoats that we are placing on sale now at $12. Look at other silk-lined, silk-faced Fall Overcoats displayed in windows elsewhere and you will see that they are identical in design. As a matter of fact the style of these garments rarely changes. While these Overcoats, strictly speaking, are SPRING Overcoats, they are in every essential FALL Overcoats.

They are silk-lined, silk-faced, all wool, and may be had in plain black, oxford grey, grey herringbone weave and fancy mixtures. This is a really REMARKABLE opportunity.

Our $12.00 Sale of Suits (Values to $40.00) continues with unabated demand. These Suits are our leftovers from Spring and Summer lines. The picking is still good.

SOME Stores Are Merely STORES
MY Store Is an INSTITUTION
—POSNER

WHEN Selfridge—of London—wished to introduce American-made clothing to the men of that city—he chose Stein-Bloch clothes as the very highest type of all that was good in design, style, fabric, wear and reputation.

And the men of London—the conservative of conservatives—men who have inherited ideas in dress from generations of well-dressed men—acknowledged the Stein-Bloch superiority and wore Stein-Bloch clothes in preference to London-built garments.

If my ambition was merely to run a store, I could run Posner's like any other store. I could sell many brands of clothing on which the margin of profit was more than it is on the Stein-Bloch product.

But my ambition has been to conduct Posner's as an institution—an establishment where all men may feel safe in making a purchase—from a collar, shirt, tie or hat, up to an entire wardrobe.

It was with this idea in mind that I decided to make Stein-Bloch the leader in my new clothing department—the most home-like, comfortable and artistically arranged shop for men's clothes in Boston.

The Fall Season's Models in Stein-Bloch clothes are now in the cases—rich in fabric—neat in pattern—adroit in moulding—honest in the making—clothes for gentlemen—at the following reasonable Posner prices:

Distinctive Clothing for Men

Men's clothing means nothing to the well dressed man unless it possesses the touch of refinement he requires. With our clothing such things are as they should be. Firstly, we consider the quality of the fabric and then put into the made-up garments all our best efforts, which have been made almost perfect by years of constant striving for improvement. As an instance, our suit at $45 is equal in every way to the best custom tailoring.

ALWAYS STAY UP

All Opening-of-the-Season Records Broken!

Yes, we have already sold hundreds of suits containing the new Aeroplane Fronts in every coat. Our customers are even more enthusiastic about these fronts than we are, if such a thing can be possible.

Many tailors have already made application for the use of this front—but we repeat that for one year we will not sell any Aeroplane Fronts to other tailors, as we wish our customers to get the first benefit.

Every coat made out in our 109 stores will absolutely have this "GUARANTEED UNBREAKABLE FRONT" init.

This front is composed of 400 one-inch-square compartments. Every one being joined together. There is not one chance in a hundred of even one of these compartments breaking down, but for argument's sake we will say a few may—even then the balance are fully capable of holding the front intact.

Every Coat Turned Out by the Six Little Tailors Has an "Aeroplane Front"

The only front known to date which can be absolutely guaranteed to never break down. In other words, we are pleased to guarantee to make you a new coat if it should be possible that the first one's front break down.

GEORGE IV., on his visit to Dublin in 1821, met at a reception Sir Philip Crampton, Ireland's greatest surgeon. "In what branch of the service is that magnificent-looking man?" asked His Majesty.

The gentleman to whom the question was put was too polite to hint that the King was mistaken in supposing that the distinguished surgeon was a naval or military officer. He replied: "He is a general in the army."

ARE OFTEN CONTAGIOUS

How to Prevent Them

The skin and its appendages are open to every form of contagion, from the accidental cut, sore, scald or burn, or the appearance of boils, carbuncles or felons, to the more serious diseases of the skin. It is not necessary to more than suggest that every family and every one carry, ready for immediate use, the world's great standard skin remedy—Basal Ointment. This ointment is dispensed and recommended by thousands of physicians, nurses and experts, remains the standard of standards. It is scientifically compounded from natural In-ingredient, each one, and all together, particularly adapted to the skin. It is put up in screw-top opal containers, selling for fifty cents and a dollar, according to size. Resinol Ointment is as easy to apply as cold cream. It is utterly impossible for it to harm the most delicate skin, for it contains only the highest grade of remedial agents, without even a trace of mercury or lead or any other

BOSTON AMERICAN

89 AND 92 SUMMIT ST., BOSTON, SEPTEMBER 22, 1911

Largest Circulation in New England,
DAILY and SUNDAY.

It Is the Duty of Every Citizen to See That the Best Men Are Nominated at the Primaries Next Tuesday

The hour is approaching when the people of Massachusetts, acting through the political parties, will select their candidates for the Legislature to make our laws for the coming year.

If all the men nominated next Tuesday are good men, then all the men who will be elected in November will be good men. The duty of the citizen to be careful in his selection of his party candidate is as great next Tuesday as it will be when he votes at the election next November.

These are important days to the State and to the Republic. Through-out the world the people are stirring. Governments and men standing in the way of those changes calculated to give the masses a greater control of their own affairs, are everywhere falling. Whether it be a monarchy in Portugal, a House of Lords in England, an absentee government in Ireland, a militarism in Germany, a plutocracy in America; they all are doomed.

Massachusetts is playing her part in the great revival. We have a Governor who has been touched with the spirit of the times. The reforms which he urged upon the Legislature when he took the oath of office, would advance our Commonwealth far up towards the head of the great world movement for the abolition of privilege and injustice and inequality.

The chief reforms the Legislature did not adopt, and the Governor, when he is re-elected, will urge them upon the next Legislature.

Shall we stand by the Governor? Shall we uphold his hands? Why elect him and bind him with legislators who cannot be depended upon to support him?

The Governor thinks that we ought to have the power to prevent a bad bill, which the Legislature has passed, from becoming a law, by the referendum. He thinks that we ought to have power to enact a good law ourselves if the Legislature, ignoring our desires, persistently refuses to enact a good law. He believes in railroad competition in New England, and he would see the State bring the Grand Trunk railway to Boston and destroy the Boston Holding Company, the device by which the New York, New Haven & Hartford fastened its grip upon the Boston & Maine.

Do we agree with the Governor that these proposals are right? If we do, then let us give him a Legislature which will support him. Let us weigh the merits of the candidates for our party nominations and select the man who will be most reliable in his support of the splendid reforms for which the Governor stands. Then let us fight for our man and nominate him against all opposition.

If we have chosen wisely he will have opposition enough, for the interests which antagonize the Governor's program are not asleep.

Let us ponder upon the significance of a very recent occurrence in East Boston. There a man named Walsh is running for the Democratic nomination for Representative. A few days ago there came into East Boston a man bearing a card of introduction to the Democratic political leader of the district from a Democrat of some prominence in another part of the city. The card bore the following words in ink upon its face: "Introducing Mr. Woodward of T. E. Byrnes' office."

On the back of the card was written in ink the statement that any kindness shown the bearer of the card would be appreciated by the man to whom the card belonged. Mr. T. E. Byrnes is the Vice-President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and has special charge of legislation affecting his railroad in Massachusetts. When "Mr. Woodward of T. E. Byrnes' office" had duly presented this card to the East Boston leader, he proceeded to urge the support of Mr. Walsh.

That card is now in the possession of the AMERICAN, together with some other interesting facts.

What does it all mean? Let every man answer this question for himself. But whatever it means, it is a warning that we must not go to sleep. There never was an arm so strong or a foot so swift that it could not be overcome while asleep. Gulliver was tied by the Lilliputians and the fox was beaten by the turtle, while they slept.

E. Gerry Brown to the Rescue

It is with unusual satisfaction that the AMERICAN felicitates Mr. E. Gerry Brown, Governor Foss, and the distressed debtors of Massachusetts upon the nomination of Mr. Brown to be supervisor of the Loan Companies in this Commonwealth.

It was a wise selection by the Governor and averages well with the high character of the Governor's other appointments.

Mr. Brown has for years been a public spirited man and an efficient political leader in the pure and inoffensive sense of the word. Only four years ago the people of Massachusetts showed the splendid respect in which he is held throughout the Commonwealth by giving him nearly 200,000 votes for Lieutenant Governor, a vote so large that it would have elected him Lieutenant Governor at any other election save that particular election.

Mr. Brown has for many years been a friend, an adviser and a comrade of the organized working men of Massachusetts. He has served faithfully upon their legislative committee, watching over their interests, and because their interests are identical with the interests of the great mass of the people, watching over the interests of all.

He is a thoughtful, well-informed man of high ideals and has a clear view of conditions in this State and country. To him the unfortunate victims of heartless and lawless loan sharks may come as to an ancient tribune, and from him they will be sure to receive the full measure of the protection of laws.

A Tribute to the Irish Race by an Irish Idealist

William B. Yeats, author, poet and dramatist, is one of a very remarkable group of gifted men and women which Ireland has produced in recent years. Truly Irish in all their instincts and thoroughly racy of their national soil, those who compose this group have succeeded in attracting to themselves, without at all seeking to do so, the interest and admiring attention of the intellectual world.

Every individual in the group is an idealist and Mr. Yeats as one, who can be classed as their leader, is the very highest type of idealist among them. Some dozen or fifteen years ago the world began to hear of Yeats and to read the products of his original and talented pen. Then the magazines took him up and began to talk about him. Those who observed him closest found he had a mission very dear to his heart—that of raising the standard of the Irish drama.

He wrote some plays. They pleased. Even the captious London critics, with whom it was never very fashionable to see anything high-class in the way of drama come out of Ireland, began to talk with respect of Yeats and his work. A little later, as those critics saw more of his work, they began to grow warm in their praise of Mr. Yeats. When they had got thus far, Yeats had his reputation.

Pretty soon Yeats had gathered about him some kindred spirits of his own race who, like himself, had ideals for the restoration of the Irish play. Foremost among these recruits was Lady Gregory. She, too, wrote Irish plays which bore the hall-mark of genius.

Then the public, like the critics, began to grow appreciative and crowded houses greeted the performers. And now the Irish literary and dramatic revival, begun in the brain of William B. Yeats, is an accomplished fact of world-wide acceptance.

Last Summer the writer was asked one day in Liverpool by the Rev. Dr. Sewall, a leading Protestant clergyman of that city, who is an Irishman, if he had seen the Irish players. The reply being in the negative, Dr. Sewall said:

"Well; you must see them before you return to America; they are marvellously natural actors."

These actors and Mr. Yeats, are now in Boston and will open next Saturday night in the new Plymouth Theatre.

On Sunday the readers of this newspaper will read a splendid article written especially for the Sunday AMERICAN by Mr. Yeats. Its subject will be a tribute to the Irish race. No man could write it better. It can be read only in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Judge Barleycorn

By DAMON RUNYON

OLD JUDGE BARLEYCORN presides over the District of Down and Out.

Jurisdiction beyond the Poles, and a little of Italy, I have no doubt. Maybe the warden's books don't show, but the warden knows that his job was tops.

Out of the District of Down and out, and the jurisdiction of Barleycorn.

Old Judge Barleycorn has a severe; Mince his bailiff, and Woe his clerk;

Draws his jurors from Fathers' Sins; capable men for the Judge's needs. Maybe the warden's books don't show, but the warden's wise and he understands Ninety per cent, of his people come from the judge's district and the Judge's hands.

Who are the witnesses? Rise and stand! Alcoholicism, a dull brocade; Wine, and Women, and a bad old Song pass to the desk in a sad parade.

Who are the attorneys? Death for the State; Tears for the prisoner all forbear—

(No defence from the prisoner's dock goes in the court of Barleycorn.)

The warden credits them "Judges-Talk." "Judge-That," however styled, He knows full well the sentence came long before the charge was filed.

Blood on their hands and blood in their hearts, haunted by fear and conscience torn. Maybe the warden's books don't show, but they come from the court of Barleycorn.

What is the big talk about? Well, I was in Sam Morris' You know, and Pa, Sam Morris that used to know me in all the time calling me out. He, he, and Pa, I have certainly got one on him now.

Well, and Pa, you might as well be talking about that as something else about it and. (Now often have I told you, and Pa, that you shouldn't see along. As I have often told you, dear, and Pa, I learned all the thing that I know from your own dear lips. He's a good fellow, and Pa, that dear lips have forced out all along to stick a form for booklet comedians, and Pa, are you here, and Pa, are you here? And then Ma began to tell, because she was only having fun with Pa, and she never uses them along from any more than I do. I hope Ma sees this book, because I have got a quarter coming from her to-morrow and I am a good collector.

To remember the conversation, and Pa, my friend Sam certainly made one of his visits and, and Pa, he was all packed up to go on a vacation, except the clothes that he had on, Pa, and his trunk was open in his room waiting for him to come back at six o'clock, and Pa.
